Spanish Students To Make Plans For Summer Session At Monterrey

Plans are being made for a group of Winthrop students to attend the Monterrey Institute in Mexico this summer. A meeting for all students of Spanish will be held Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the auditorium of the Administration Building. Dean Walter D. Smith will discuss the requirements for admission, and related slides of the campus at Monterrey will be shown.

The Institute, a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, offers a variety of courses whose credits may be transferred to the student's college or university in the United States.

Miss Marjorie J. of the Spanish Department, who has taught at the Institute in previous sessions, will accompany the group to Mexico.

Miss Judy urges all who are interested in a summer of study and fun to attend. "The modern buildings and beautiful campus of the Institute plus the breath-taking scenery of the country are unforgettable," she says.

Some of the most interesting sights recounted by Miss Judy were the famous mountains, La Silla, and the Reflecting Pool of the campus, which is drained and converted into a ballroom.

Miss Judy also stated that the cost of room and board, tuition and transportation is relatively small compared to the rewards of a summer spent there.

Winthrop Is Test Center

Winthrop has been designated as an area testing center by the College Entrance Examination Board, according to Dr. Wilbur D. Livingston, registrar.

Winthrop became a member of the College Entrance Examination Board this year and all future students must take the tests of the Board.

Tests will be administered at Winthrop once each month from December through June and once in August.

Students from this area who expect to enter any college requiring these examinations may be tested at Winthrop.

A student score report can be sent by the Board to three different institutions without further expense to the examinee.

Faculty Nominates 14 For Grad. Fellowships

Fourteen Winthrop seniors have been nominated by the faculty to be considered for Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for graduate study.

Awards are made annually by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation to be used in the first year of graduate study by students who are interested in careers as college teachers.

Winthrop's candidates for the fellowships are Fran Arrowood, Brenda Bailey, Carol Baskin, Martha Goodwin, Susan Griggs, Betty Jane Harner, Gladys Hamilton, Nellie Jones, Frances Jordan, Lurline Lockair, Sara Page, Linda Stevens and Iva Jean Wallace.

These students are being honored today with a dinner.

Dinner speakers will be Pres. Charles S. Davis, who will speak on "Need for College Teachers"; Evan Walker D. Smith, "Other Opportunities for Financial Aid"; Dr. John S. Ellis, Jr., "Graduate Work in the Humanities"; and Dr. Walter Hess, "Graduate Work in the Sciences."

1961 Grads Will Meet

On Thursday, December 4, all seniors and two year business majors who will be graduated in May, July, or August will attend one of the two placement meetings to be held in the Administration Building Auditorium.

These meetings are to give information on where and how to apply for summer or full-time jobs. The first meeting will be at 11:45 a.m. and the second at 4:15 p.m. All seniors are urged to be present at one of these meetings.

Miss Margaret Hess will be the college representative at a conference sponsored by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies in Oak Ridge, Tennessee, November 21-23.

Committee Of Nine Makes Selections

Twenty-seven seniors will appear in the 1961 spring edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Qualifications for selection include scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extra-curricular activities, citizenship, service to the college and promise of future leadership.

Selection was made by a group of nine administrative and faculty representatives.

WC Joins Clemson C. In Council

Pres. Robert C. Edwards of Clemson College and Pres. Charles S. Davis of Winthrop have announced the formation of a joint council to foster a program of research in home economics.

This plan is to be one of the most significant undertakings in home economics in South Carolina, coming at a time when new ideas and new approaches are needed to meet the effects of a new technology in the American home.

Winthrop and Clemson have jointly established the Clemson-Winthrop Home Economics Research Council which is expected to delve deeply into home economics research—an area which authorities believe to be neglected in South Carolina—while such areas as agriculture, food processing, nutrition and textiles receive consistent attention. Research in these areas has been carried out for many years through the Experiment Station at Clemson. Directed by Dr. O. B. Garrison.

Appointed by the presidents of the two colleges to serve on the newly created councils are Mrs. Edna P. Muser, Mrs. Marie S. Hinds and Dr. J. H. Mitchell, Jr., of Clemson and Dr. Kathryn Powell, Dr. Phoebe Harris and Miss Roberta London of Winthrop.

Wilson Conducts Fall Clinic

The annual fall Choral Clinic will be held at Winthrop Wednesday and Thursday, Dr. Harry Wilson will conduct the clinic this year. Dr. Wilson is a distinguished choral conductor and Chairman of the Department of Music in the Teachers College of Columbia University.

The numbers to be used in the clinic have been selected from the list of compositions for the high school music festival, and they were chosen by a committee from the Choral Division of the S.C.M.E.A.

The groups participating in the program will include a mixed chorus to be known as the All State Chorus, whose members chosen by auditions in the Choral Division. The demonstration groups will also include a boys' and a girls' Glee Club.

All the high school groups will accept one day, Wednesday, and the junior high and elementary groups are listed for Thursday.

Mr. Emmet Gore and Mr. Jack Baker of the music faculty are serving as conductor and business manager, respectively. The orchestra of sixty-one members is made up of college students, townpeople and students from the Training School and city schools.

The orchestra plans to present two formal concerts during the school year. The personnel of the orchestra are as follows: Violins, Betty Wren, Wendy Matson, Shirley Pettis, Mary Macdonald, James Chick, Eugene McAlley, Anne Bonnette, Rebecca Ridgeway, Billy Long, Michael Whitfield, Barry Matson, Kathy Lowry; Viola, Reverend W. W. Lumpkin; Violoncello, Margaret Latt, Jack Baker, Dorothy Hodge, Martha Vance Timmerman.

Also, Bass violins, Maxine Cauder, Elaine Ann Wimberly, Georgia Burns, Jean Searcy, Obese, Kenneth Snipes, Dawna Cole, Gladys, Frances Martin, Lynn McCoy, Rose Charlotte, Lila Shannon, Norma Ralph Blake, William Sullivan, Griger Long, Kaye Albert-Trampette, Sally Hart, Ronald Gore, Isabel Macaulay, Trembore, Cynthia Hambrick, Douglas Cobb, William Beatty, Rose Hers, Robert Williams, Trampette, Adrain Ketcham, Pamela, Marie Cox, Mary Ann Shuler, Jennie Blake.

One half of the undergraduates' work at Merrill-Palmer is in the "core course," Human Behavior as Expressive of Culture, Society, and Personal Philosophy. Undergraduate electives are offered in courses dealing with behavior of the adolescent, physical development, gerontology, nutrition, psychology, religion and culture, education of the preschool child, parent education, group leadership, guidance, family life education, social agencies and community organization, and preparation for marriage, among others.

At Merrill-Palmer they study the individual as he develops mentally, physically, emotionally and socially in addition to advanced experimental classroom work, the students have planned and supervised opportunities to observe and participate in community service activities which bring to the Institute people of all ages taking part in programs for infants, preschool children, older children and adolescents, adults, families and older folk.

Journalist Appears On Lecture Program

On December 2, Mr. Malcolm Muggeridge, a well-known satirical magazine editor, is coming to Winthrop College to address the student body.

Mr. Muggeridge, often seen on Edward R. Murrow's program "Small World," is a British journalist and a frequent guest on television programs both here and in England. For five years he was editor of Punch, the famous British humor magazine, and since his resignation, he is again engaged in newspaper writing.

An ardent believer in non-conformity, Mr. Muggeridge has had an unusual life and education. He was born in 1903 just outside of London. After studying at the Selhurst Grammar School, he went on to Cambridge University, where he took an honors degree at the age of twenty.

His first job was as a teacher in the Egyptian University in Cairo, where he used his free time to send news stories back to England's famed newspaper, The Manchester Guardian. Returning for a two-year stint in the home office, he was assigned to the Editorial Page, where he displayed enthusiasm for what was then (in 1933) known as the Russian Experiment.

To test his ardor, he perhaps just to get rid of him for a while, the Guardian made him their Moscow correspondent. Once in Russia, he quickly suffered a rude disillusionment; nothing about the Communist regime or way of life was pleasing to him.

He returned to England and wrote a savagely critical book onitled "Winter in Moscow," which was published here and widely acclaimed. "Outspoken and decisive in its destructive criticism," said the Saturday Review of Literature. The Times Literary Supplement wrote that Muggeridge "apparently regards the whole Russian thing as a fantastic soap, equally monstrous and ridiculous."

After a brief fling on an Indian newspaper, Muggeridge returned to write a column for the London Evening Standard. But war intervened. He joined the Intelligence Corps in 1939 as a private and emerged six years later as a Major, complete with numerous decorations, including the Legion of Honor.

The war being over, he immediately went to Washington as correspondent for the Daily Telegraph, and so began his warm friendship with America and the Americans.

In 1953 he was invited to become Editor-in-Chief of Punch, the first editor the magazine had ever employed from outside its own staff. Punch had fallen on rather sorry days; once waspish, it had become sentimental; once terse, it was paralytic; once sharply amusing, it had gone flat. But in a few months, under Muggeridge's severe editorial hand, it was trimmed and tightened; the reviews became more astute; devastating parodies of other publications began to appear regularly; writers of reputation began to reappear in Punch and praise poured in from all over the world.

MR MALCOLM MUGGERIDGE

In the fall of 1957, feeling he had accomplished his purpose and had nothing further to offer in the way of changes for Punch, Mr. Muggeridge resigned. Now a regular columnist for both Sunday Pictorial and the Mesa Statesman in New Mexico, he has traveled to the USSR and the USA with Prime Minister Macmillan as correspondent for the Daily Mirror. He has spent three months as an editor on an Australian paper, but he still manages to spend most of his time at his country place in Sussex near where he was born, with his wife and children.

His favorite theme is the immense waste of non-conforming. He feels the 20th Century is reminiscent of nothing so much as the Dark Ages when destruction, superstition and abomination held sway. The myth of progress seems to him particularly untenable—advances only steps in darkness.

He finds the relationship between England and America, very enlightening; two countries as alike as they are unlike, "fated to misunderstand, irritate and generally drive one another to distraction."

He is concerned also by the regression in humor in both high places and low, and he is convinced that Surrealist Conferences should be attended, not by pompous foreign service officers and heads of state, but by humorists, who might well "have the rest of us from being bored to death by Monologues, or stunned to death by H-Booms."

Miss Hi Miss Deadline Nears

December 15 is the deadline for Winthrop's 1961 Miss Hi Miss program.

High schools from throughout South Carolina and from North Carolina schools within a 100-mile radius of Rock Hill have been invited to take part in the program.

Each school participating in the program selects an outstanding senior girl on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character and personal attractiveness.

Beeren Twins, "Americans At Heart" Obtain Citizenship Too Late To Vote

Twins Olga and Anna Beeren smile happily after receiving their United States citizenship November 22.

By THE HAMILTON

Where our country is concerned, two of the United States' newest citizens "love it." Anna and Olga Beeren, second semester sophomores at Winthrop, came to America with their family ten years ago when they were eleven years old. The day before Thanksgiving they attained their United States citizenship.

They lived in Weert, Holland, with their parents and brother Frank before moving to Elton, Louisiana, and then to Clover two years later. Their father is in the seafood business, and their 16-year-old brother works for him.

Their memories of Holland include windmills and houses made only of brick. The twins were quite surprised to see wooden houses in America. They also had separate schools for girls and boys but say this may not be the case now. There were also lots of bicycles and hardly any cars.

The two home economics majors say our food is seasoned more than it was in Holland and is more fattening, but it is good. Fried chicken, which they never had before their arrival in the U.S., is one of their favorites.

Although their citizenship came too late to vote in this year's election, Anna and Olga were Kennedy supporters and were very interested in the election.

Transfers from Sacred Heart Junior College, the twins like WC's teachers and friendliness. Their favorite assembly was the animal movie and general romances. They liked the Thanksgiving dinner and wish there were more like it; in fact, Anna was still eating while being interviewed that night. They especially liked the spirit shown during Class Night and thought of W.C.A. Variety Show was good. Among their dislikes are the shots handed out so generously by the infantry.

They like Harry Belafonte, and "Doris" is Anna's favorite comic strip; both like horseback riding.

On their one visit to the North they observed that Northerners talk faster and are in more of a hurry than Southerners.

Neither Olga nor Anna knew any English when they came over, and neither wanted to come. Now that they are here though, they are glad, and our newest citizens are planning to stay.

The two presented papers on "The Space of a Woman's Life and Learning" for the Southern Association for Colleges for Women.

This association met in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Memphis, Tenn., last Monday-Thursday.

The special educational needs of women are receiving increased attention from educators across the nation and both Dr. Davis and Mr. Banning are members of the Commission on the Education of Women of the American Council of Education.

Other Winthrop officials who went to Memphis for the Southern Association meeting are Dr. Walter D. Smith, dean of the college, and Mr. Wilbur D. Livingston, registrar.

Alumnae Make News

Jean Crouch Scholarship
Senator Strom Thurmond has contributed $500 for the Jean Crouch Thurmond scholarship. This represents the honorarium which he received from addressing the annual meeting of the Carolina Branch of the Associated General Contractors of America. The meeting was held recently in Florida.

Another substantial gift to this scholarship was received from the South Carolina Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. This scholarship continues to grow through contributions from relatives, friends and business.

Edie Speaks
Dr. John S. Edie talked on the Winthrop Honors Program at the meeting of the Gastonia Chapter of the Alumnae Association Tuesday. The meeting was held at the First Methodist Church in Gastonia, North Carolina.

Attending this meeting with Dr. Edie were Mrs. Edie and Miss Eleanor Foxworth, Alumnae Secretary.

The president of the chapter is Mrs. Walter Runge, who is the new editor of The Alumnae News.

Lightsey Contributes
Mrs. Oswald Lightsey, has sent a $200 scholarship to the Winthrop Alumnae Scholarship Fund. Mrs. Lightsey has given this scholarship each year since the beginning of the Winthrop Alumnae Honor Scholarship Program.

Mrs. Lightsey is from Hampton, South Carolina. Her daughter, Lal, is a student here.

Wolfe Scholarship
Contributions continue to come in to the Alumnae Association for the Harold Wolfe Scholarship.

Dr. Wolfe, before his death this summer, was head of the History Department at Winthrop.

Radio Club Holds Meet

The first meeting of the Amateur Radio Club will be held at 5 p. m. Friday in room 304 in the Administration Building. Anyone interested in becoming a "ham" radio operator may attend. The purpose of the club is to discuss the possibilities and prerequisites of beginning a "ham" radio station on campus.

"Ham" or amateur radio operators are active not only throughout the United States but over the world. They can contact and speak with other operators which their radio beams can reach. A "ham" may enjoy and profit from his radio; moreover, many an amateur has played a vital role in emergencies when his radio is the only means of communication in an area. Civil defense also depends on "ham" radio to aid in the event of an attack of war.

Clemson and several other schools operate "ham" stations. Mr. William McDermott feels Winthrop students may profit in many ways by operating their own station. Meetings of the club will be held once each week. Mr. McDermott will instruct members in radio techniques. By meeting certain requirements concerning radio and Morse Code, a student may obtain the initial license which permits her to broadcast only in Morse Code and which expires in one year. The second license, which permits its owner to broadcast her voice, may be renewed indefinitely.

In order to be issued official call letters, they to be able to broadcast from its own station, Winthrop must have ten licensed "ham" operators.

Annual Party Held: Honors Children

The annual Faculty-Administration Party, sponsored by the Winthrop Christian Association, will be held December 5 in Johnson Hall.

Guests will be the highlight of the entertainment, and the Senior Order will act as hostesses. All faculty and administration children are invited.

Psychic Killer Lurks Here In Play, "Night Must Fall"

By HEATHER McDONALD

Susan Griggs and Mr. J. Robert Swain rehearse for the forthcoming production "Night Must Fall."

The word is out. A psychopathic killer named Danny lurks somewhere at Winthrop. And here's the thing: it's his chief regret is that he can't tell the world he has murdered two women.

But fortunately, it may be reassuring to know, Danny exists only in fiction.

"Night Must Fall," by Emlyn Williams, is not a dime-a-dozen mystery," say play Director William L. Long. "It's a fine drama, probably the type Alfred Hitchcock would enjoy directing."

A witty, psychological drama, "Night Must Fall" involves the distorted thoughts and the abnormal behavior of Danny, a former bell hop, who, in his obsession to be "somebody," is bent to dominate and destroy. To emphasize this eerie mood, appropriate background music has been arranged by Mr. Christopher Reynolds.

Appearing as Danny will be J. Robert Swain, who is probably most vividly remembered for his portrayal of Stanley in "A Streetcar Named Desire," produced at Winthrop last spring.

Susan Griggs comments on the difficulties the faces with her role as Olivia. Olivia is quiet, restless and sophisticated. "I've felt her emotions myself," says Susan. "But not in the same way."

The pitiful, dimpled-cheeked Evie Schwartzing is sharply contrasted to the stout, old Mrs. Bramson, whom she will play on stage. Says Evie: "It's really a challenge to put yourself in a different person's place."

Rick Hill's L. P. Gilbert remarks that he "rather enjoys" his brief role as the smooth "Inspector Belzine, who, in his 'air of Don't let me interrupt-you-but here are the handcuffs, slips in to take the culprit, then calmly slides on."

In remembering Doris, the simple, foggy maid of "Night Must Fall," Phyllis Smith says, "now there is a character!" As the brains, out-spoken Mrs. Bramson, Edolin Prince, a promising new actress, finds that she's "having trouble learning to walk like an old woman." Other players include Eddie Vane and Joan Lewis.

"Night Must Fall" will be the Winthrop Theatre's first mystery drama since "Ladies in Retirement" in 1936.

"Night Must Fall" opens December 8-10. The curtain rises at 8 p. m. in the Johnson Hall Auditorium. No seats are reserved.

RECREATION ROUNDUP

By MICKEY SENN and BEVERLY JONES

Well, here we are again, ready to bring you up to date on the recreation plans for the coming week.

The doubles table tennis tournament has been discontinued due to lack of student participation.

Game night will be held again tonight from 6:30 to 10:30 p. m. in the student lounge. WRA will provide refreshments at 9:30. At this time freshmen may attend.

A new write/night contest is now beginning; a deadline will soon be announced. In each round the hall having the largest number of points will win a picnic for its members.

The faculty will be left-handed challengers Sunday at 4 p. m. in the student-faculty softball game to be played on the Athletic Field. Mr. Rousso G. Lafitte's volleyball wonders have agreed to play the girls' rules, left-handed, against those Winthrop students who are brave enough to oppose their teachers. The risk, of the faculty will be increased by other members who did not participate in the faculty-student volleyball game. Likely to appear in the Sunday thriller will be Mr. Julian S. Winkler, Mr. William S. Thurmond, Mr. Elmer T. Crowson, Mr. John R. C. Jones, Mr. Michael L. Smith, Miss Ann Upchurch and Miss Marilyn Y. Arnold.

The victorious faculty doubled the students' score in the above-mentioned volleyball game . . . but, the students avenged their loss by winning the unofficial games played afterwards. Both sides should be ready to compete again Sunday.

Team two and team three have tied for first place in the speedball tournament with records of . . . wins and . . . losses. Blanche Powell, PEAC chairman, has announced that a play-off will be arranged if the teams desire.

The team of Martha Ann McCleare and Nancy Shawrow defeated the Nancy Huff-Duff Crouch team 6-3 to win the campus doubles tennis championship.

WC Accepts Phelps Bids

Winthrop has accepted bids totaling $284,822 from Roberson Construction Company of Columbia for a four-story addition to Phelps Hall.

The addition is the student residence hall with house 120 students. It will include 44 bedrooms, 32 baths and service rooms.

Construction is expected to begin on the addition immediately, and the building will be ready for occupancy by students in September 1951.

Subcontractors for the addition are American Heating and Air Conditioning of Chester, plumbing and heating, and E. B. Milton of Greenville, electrical.

Young Construction Company of Rock Hill was the second lowest bidder with $298,551 and McCrory Construction Company of Columbia was third low with $299,549.

Davis Gives Program

Pres. Charles S. Davis and noted author Margaret Calkin Banning teamed up last Wednesday to present a special program on the education of women.

The two presented papers on "The Space of a Woman's Life and Learning" for the Southern Association for Colleges for Women.

This association met in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Memphis, Tenn., last Monday-Thursday.

Gilbreth Speaks

Dr. Harold B. Gilbreth, Head, Department of Business and Economics, spoke at the annual meeting of the Southern Business Education Association in Atlanta during the Thanksgiving weekend.

Dr. Gilbreth discussed "The Challenge of Economic Education in the Modern Education Program." Widely known as a specialist in the area of basic business and economic education, he has served as speaker, writer and consultant in these fields.

At one time Dr. Gilbreth served as president of the 18-state organization to which he returned as speaker.

Flying Service Makes Offer

The Rock Hill Flying Service, a division of Tennessee Airmotive Incorporated, is now offering its services to Winthrop students.

Mrs. Dot Beale, secretary-treasurer of the Service and student pilot stated, "Our planes can take you anywhere in the United States. For a quick trip home, fly. We can take you to Charlotte in 10 minutes to Charleston in one hour and five minutes, and to Raleigh, N. C. in 55 minutes."

Other services offered are an approved flight school, passenger flights over the city and an ambulance emergency flights.

All pilots are commercially rated pilots, and the Service is approved by the Federal Aviation Association.

With any flight the Service station wagon is available to pick up customers at the college. Rates are for the entire plane, which permits three girls to share a plane.

Personality at the week Evie Schwartzing applies make-up for a dress rehearsal of "Night Must Fall."

PERSONALITY OF THE WEEK

Original Evie Wrecks Jag ...But Never Drives It...?

By JUDY HENSLEY

Probably the only Winthrop girl who can claim to wrecking a Jaguar is that she's never driven driving a Jaguar. "She's always going on a diet," laughs one of her friends, "but she never does."

Bulky-knit sweaters and a Union College sweatshirt, "so thick I don't see how she gets it in the closet," are her favorite outfits.

With her own "Schwartzing" version of the pixie haircut and her mischievous style of storytelling, this Junior will remain one of Winthrop's true personalities.

"New Eyes For Needy" Is Started

The Saturday Afternoon Club of Rock Hill is sponsoring a project "New Eyes for the Needy" in connection with the Winthrop Christian Association at Winthrop. "New Eyes for the Needy" is a non-profit volunteer charity dedicated to providing better vision to needy people both in this country and abroad. No money is so limited, the work is made possible through collection of discarded eye glasses and precious metal scrap. New prescription glasses and artificial eyes are given to individuals screened by welfare agencies.

Reusable plastic framed glasses are tested and sent to hospital clinics and foreign missions. Funds have been established with 60 hospitals, and many welfare agencies are allotted specific numbers of glasses per year. By various methods, the charity helps get glasses to the needy in 42 states.

WCA has placed a box in the post office for your discarded glasses.

Archers Play As Week Ends

The Archers, a dance band from Columbia, will play at the Sophomore Dance tomorrow night, which climaxes Sophomore Week. The campus-wide dance will be held upstairs in the Old Gym from 8 p.m. until 11:30 p.m. There will also be intermission entertainment.

The theme of the dance will follow the theme of Sophomore Week. Invitations have been sent to nearby schools.

Chairman of the Dance Committee is Betty Hobbs. Winnie Archers are Betty Greer, Beth Sanders, Hazel McLain, Denise Brewer, Judy Getts, and Judy Eick.

Gore Elected As Treasurer

Mr. Emmett Gore of the music faculty was elected treasurer of the newly organized South Carolina Chapter of the American String Teachers Association which met recently at Converse College. Other officials elected were: Mrs. Peggy Giffill, president, of Spartanburg; Mr. Don Mills, secretary, of Charleston.

The purpose of the organization is to develop and promote string instruction and orchestras in our state.

Winhecons, Phi U's Sponsor Cake Sale

The annual fruitcake sale sponsored by Phi U and the Winhecons Club began this week and will continue until Christmas holidays.

"The cakes are made by home economics majors in the Home Economics Dept. of the University responsible for taking orders include Jane Collins, Mary Ann McElwain, Ann Rasmussen, Harrington, Lorela Nichols, Emily Troy, Phyllis Ott, Janie Wright, Hope Marie Newman, Brenda Owens, Myra Cannon, Naomi Hallman, Kay Boyette and Sylvia Hoffman."

Orders can also be placed by contacting any other Phi U or Winhecons member. The price is one dollar per pound for the cakes and sixty cents per dozen for cupcakes.

There are only 18 more days before Christmas holidays begin.

Dr. Ruth Jones points out one of the many trees on campus she identified and named.

Dr. Ruth Jones Devoted Five Years Plus Climbing Trees To Name Shubbery

By JUDY CUNNINGHAM
Imagine climbing trees and devoting five years with an average of ten hours a week to the naming and classifying of all the vines, trees and shrubs on the Winthrop campus. This is exactly what Dr. Ruth Jones and her student assistants did when they undertook this project.

The naming of the trees on the Winthrop campus was a project which the Biology Department has wished to carry out for a number of years.

Dr. Jones, a biology professor at Winthrop since 1948, is responsible for this dream having come true. She completed the project in June of 1959. It was exceedingly difficult to accomplish, since making the identifications, making logs, putting tags on the plants, and making maps for these projects involved much time.

Fortunately Dr. Henry R. Sims, resident emeritus, had an interest in the project and authorized expenditures which included the purchase of an engraving machine to make the tags and funds for scholarship assistance. Dr. Jones remembers the day when she went to Dr. Sims with a list of arguments supporting this project. Dr. Sims simply told her to put away her list, because no argument was necessary. The project was begun in 1954.

Dr. Jones and her student assistants were able to classify the plants through books called keys. Using these keys is not so easy as looking up a word in a dictionary; there are certain clues which must be followed. The color, shape, texture and position of the leaves must all be studied. The flower and later the fruit are collected and put under a microscope to complete the identification. Dr. Jones, an old hand at this, was first introduced to a key when she was a little girl by her father, Dr. C. E. McHugh, who was a scientist in his own right.

The first tree Dr. Jones identified was the shingle oak in front of Tillman Hall. She began with the oaks because they are one of the hardest groups to classify.

Many of the state's oaks on campus have marble markers at the base indicating that the tree was presented to the college as a living and growing memorial by Winthrop classes dating back to 1904.

There is also a fine collection of pecan trees which various people gave to the college. The donors gave them to provide nuts for the girls to eat. Dr. Jones said she had heard of this incident happening on other college campuses.

There are at least a dozen Ginkgo trees, which are supposedly considered to be rare. Every fall

Photos Exhibited

The Popular Photography International Exhibit will be on display in the Administration Building from December 3-17 sponsored by the Department of Fine Arts.

The exhibit features approximately 100 photographic prints, both color and black-and-white, representing examples of contemporary photography from all over the world. All prints are selected from prize-winning photographs in the Popular Photography $25,000 International Picture Contest, the biggest yearly competition in the photographic world.

The exhibit covers a broad range of subject matter from dramatic and human interest photographs to landscapes and outstanding examples of portraiture. They demonstrate the great forward strides made by the photographic arts in recent years.

While the exhibit has a moving experience to thousands of viewers (more than a half-million last season) many of whom are photographers, the technical information on each picture, describing the type of equipment, camera settings, and film, enhances the value of the exhibit to photographers.

State Modern Dance Forum Will Be Held December 10

Purlee Talks At Meeting

Dr. L. Lee Purlee, associate professor of chemistry, will speak Thursday at 8 p.m. in Johnson Hall to members of Kappa Pi.

Dr. Purlee was born in Salem, Indiana. He received his B.S. from Ball State Teachers College, his M.S. from University of New Mexico, and his Ph. D. from Pennsylvania State University.

The State Modern Dance Forum, to which many colleges and high schools have been invited, will be held at Winthrop December 10.

Those attending will be dance students from Coker College, Limestone College, Furman University and Daniel Hays School, Clemson.

The purpose of the forum is to give students an opportunity to explore dance as a creative and a technical art.

The program will include a technique class, presentation of dances by groups, a discussion, and a creative approach to dance.

with the schedule arranged as follows: morning registration, warm-ups and technique, creative approach to dance studies, lunch, presentation of dances and a discussion on dances.

Miss Virginia Moomaw, instructor of dance at the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, who came to Winthrop last year to give a dance recital, will be guest artist. She also serves on the National Dance Section of the American Physical Education Association. She will teach students some of her dance techniques and will hold a workshop where dance ideas will be exchanged.

Mrs. Alice Salo, Winthrop dance instructor and assistant professor of physical education, when asked her feelings of the forum, replied, "I think that the whole thing will be a wonderful experience for our dance students to meet other girls and exchange dance ideas with other colleges. We hope to make the forum an annual affair at Winthrop."

Mrs. Salo also added that Betty Sturkie, chairman of the dance group, and Vera Young, co-chairman, are working hard to make the forum a success.

Social Eyes

By NANCY JONES

The holidays are over, at least for a while, school is in full swing again, and memories of holiday fun linger in the minds of all of us. Although most Winthrop spent Thanksgiving with their parents, some did try it out at other places for the vacation period. All in all this was a welcomed break during this semester, especially in view of the absence of Fall Break.

Some of the news included this week is a little old since it occurred several weekends ago. It's in the week's column because we didn't have a paper last week.

ENGAGED AND PINNED

TRAVELING TO CAROLINA

ARMY-NAVY GAME

Traveling afar to Northern territory was Jarrily Thompson who took in the big Army-Navy game during the holidays.

AT OTHER COLLEGES

Ruth Pale went to the Presbyterian-Newberry game. Joella Arthur, Judy Sigman, and Margaret Purlee recently spent some time at Davidson. Phoebe Massey visited at Furman, and Brenda Sanders went to Raleigh. Terry Brown and Carol Sellar went to Chapel Hill for the UNC-Duke game.

NEW YORK CITY

Those girls lucky enough to go to New York City during the holidays were Betty Bremer, Paula Newman, Nancy Sharrow, and Patty Roehl.

Pi Delta Phi Plans December 8 Meet

There will be a meeting of the members of Pi Delta Phi December 8 at 8 p.m. in Johnson Hall. The group will listen to a record by Albert Camus, a well-known modern French author, who died last year. Other records will be heard, and discussions on books will be held.

The first Sunday in November members of Pi Delta Phi went to Charlotte to see a French movie, "Le Rouge et le Noir" by Stendhal.

Very soon the club will hold conversations in the cafeteria.

Baptists Convene

The state Baptist Student Union Convention will be held in Spartanburg December 2-4. Approximately 50 Baptist students from Winthrop will attend this year.
